THE DAILY SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, Editor.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1865.

OUR TERMS.

THE SENTINEL is issued every morning (Sunday excepted) at the following rates:

For six months, - - - - -	$5,00
For one month - - - - -	1,00
" two months - - - - -	2,00

Our terms are invariably in advance. The scarcity of money however, obliges us to say to our friends, that responsible and prompt persons who desire the Sentinel need not delay sending us their names at once, who can send us the Cash in a short time. The money may be sent us by the Rail Road Conductors or the Express Company.

Subscribers, etc.

A number of our friends owe us for subscription and advertising. We need the amount and will be obliged to our friends if they will send it to us by Express or by safe hands. The members of the Legislature will afford a good chance.

The Situation.

Where are we? What is the status of the Southern States? We regret that we are not able to answer these important questions, officially, fully and satisfactorily to our readers.

We are not enthusiastic, nor overly credulous, or sanguine, but we are hopeful. The press and leading men of the South as well as the tone of some in the North, have led the Southern people to believe that reconstruction was a very easy thing and would be quickly over. We have thought otherwise, yet we have fallen into the current of expectation, to give hope to our people. The whole matter is a new thing. It is an experiment. Never was the like before, exactly. The settlement involves the gravest questions of constitutional law, of political and social organization, and hence cannot be settled in a day. Let us therefore, with our present lights, answer the above questions without circumlocution, or an attempt at explanation or to give the reasons of things.

Where are we? Our people are rapidly reconstructing. Our economical arrangements are seeking their old channels—people are getting into business—at least all who want bread and intend to labor for it. There are difficulties in the way. Avenues of business few—but little money and little to bring money. Nevertheless our people are doing well upon the whole.

What is the status of the States? They have made some progress in reconstruction. They have laid the foundation and begun the superstructure, but the work is not complete. The work however cannot go on rapidly from this time. There will be an interregnum in the progress of the States towards reconstruction. This may be brief or tedious according to circumstances.

Our information from Washington is, that reconstruction is to be set back. The machine has run too fast. The North is incredulous in regard to the Southern people. It questions their loyalty, their real submission, and wants severer tests applied. The Southern men with Northern principles among us, have been busy in the work of the defamation of their own people, and they have succeeded in prejudicing the mind of the North against us.

Our whole people acknowledge that they are conquered—that they are at the mercy of the conqueror, and throw themselves upon his magnanimity. Whatever terms have been proposed by the conqueror, have been accepted, or will be by the South. No other alternative is left them—their honor is pledged to its acceptance, and we affirm it will be done. Where then is the difficulty? We believe that when our Southern people pledge their fidelity to the government in future, they mean what they say. They intend to fulfil to the letter the obligations they assume. They accept the situation as it is, and they do it with an honest intention to be true to the government But in the several States of the South, upon the questions submitted to them in their Conventions and Legislatures, there has not been that perfect unanimity which the North expected. The suspicion that because all those who have been pardoned and taken the oath of allegiance, do not vote approvingly of every measure proposed by the government, that therefore they are disloyal and not ready for Union, is, to say the least, not a very charitable suspicion? For instance, the government demands the immediate abolition of slavery. Now it is evident, that every man in the South acquiesces in this decision as a necessity, and as one of the essential terms of the surrender. Every Southern man's honor is thus pledged to acquiesce and assent to it.—But when you submit the question to vote himself for the abolition of slavery, the aspect of the question is changed as to him. As an act of the government he sanctions it—but when you require him to make it his act, the question is changed. His conscience and judgment are brought directly to the decision, as an act of his own. And if from his heart he cannot believe that it is right and just and best, ought he to violate both his conscience and judgment and vote for it? Were he acting simply as an agent for the government, he could vote for it without hesitancy, but when you put him on his individual responsibility or when he is representing a constituency whose views he knows, the character of the question is totally changed.

The same principles and arguments apply with equal force to all the questions of voting recently in the Southern States. Does the fact that because our people vote differently on the various issues presented by the government, from what the government or the Northern people expected or desired, prove that they are therefore hostile or disloyal to the government? By no means. Does it not prove rather their honesty, their fidelity, and that they are the very people who can be trusted. They will not deceive—there is no hypocrisy in such cases. Does the government or the Northern people take it for granted that every man who talks loyally,—is blatant for the Union or votes as the government desires, is truly a loyal man? Is it not well known that thousands of men in the South, who are noisy advocates for every measure of the government—who are now perfectly obsequious, have been the most unprincipled and outspoken defamers of the government in the land? Can such men be trusted in preference to men who have always been truthful, reliable and honest? We should think not.

Thoughts for the Times.

The Southern people are impressible, buoyant, hopeful. They are moreover, confiding, and are apt to judge of things by what men say,—to rely upon appearances. Experience in the past ought to have taught them a lesson, yet with all its teachings, how little have they been profited. The Northern mind is almost the antipodes of the Southern. The North is cautious, chary, incredulous, till fixed—then tenacious and unimpressible. Character is the same in individuals as in peoples or States, and a proper understanding of national or provincial character among peoples, is as essential to peace, confidence and good neighborhood, as it is among individuals.

The impressibility and hopefulness of the Southern mind have never been more strikingly exhibited, than since the termination of the late disastrous war. Ardent, sincere and confiding, our people have deluded themselves with the idea, that with a single bound they might leap from the gory field of antagonism and conflict with and against the Union, back again into the very bosom of the Union. They forget that nations and peoples, however good they may be, are not and perhaps never will be, God-like. It is manlike to be exacting, unconfiding, to remember injuries, to seek revenge, to bear malice and to love to hate; but it is only God-like, to forgive and to forget.

The North and the South both before and since the revolt, view the late revolution from very different stand points. The South felt it had a cause for its action—that it was justified by the action of the North—that the Southern cause, was the cause of right and justice, and that at least, if an error at all, it was a blunder—an error of the head and not of the heart. The North never did and does not to this day, admit that the South had a cause—that its cause was at all justifiable or even palliated by the circumstances.—The North not only does not admit that it was justifiable, but holds that it was not a blunder but a crime—a most atrocious crime against patriotism, humanity and God,—a crime that must be punished or repented of before it can be forgiven. Criminality, implies knowledge and a bad motive. Hence in our cogitations upon the subject, we have concluded, that in their decisions upon this question, both are wrong.

The revolution was the result of ignorance on the part of both peoples, North and South, of the real purposes and designs of each other, induced and promoted by the evil purposes of bad men on both sides. Hence we have always held that the war was the work in its inception, not of the people, but of the politicians and demagogues. If so, now that it has ended, how important it is, that good men, statesmen and patriots should combine everywhere to heal its breaches—to correct its errors and to repair and restore its waste and ruin.

Provisional Governments.

The provisional governments in the Southern States were designed by the President, to be temporary and preparatory to the regular and full restoration of the States to their former positions in the Union. It was doubtless the desire of the President, that this would be effected before the meeting of the Congress; at least, it was a fair inference from his plans and intimations. Many sober people however, have looked for no such early restoration. The known sentiments of the ruling party in the country, authorized no such hope, yet the masses of our people had become fully impressed with the belief of an early restoration.

We have good reasons for saying, that for some time the impression has prevailed in Washington and among leading persons elsewhere, that the object of an early restoration would be defeated; and that before the election in North Carolina, the matter was settled, that instructions would be given to the Provisional Governors to continue in their positions.

We remarked several days ago, that the results of the election in this State had nothing to do with the recent notifications to the Provisional Governor of this State, to continue in office till further orders. The Convention which authorized the election of Governor, distinctly fixed the period of his entering upon office, at the time of the expiration of the Provisional Government. In proof of the correctness of our statement above, we learn that on the day Judge Reade addressed the President, (the 10th inst.) and in reply to which the President said he should continue the Provisional Governments, the strongest assurances were given at Washington from this city, of the certain election of Gov. Holden. Hence we said, that the instructions would have been given, no matter who was elected Governor

U. S. Supreme Court--B. F. Moore, Esq.

We have heretofore suggested the name of our distinguished fellow citizen B. F. Moore, Esq., as possessing the highest qualification, for a seat on the U. S. Supreme Court Bench. The vacancy occasioned by the death of Judge Catron has not been filled. Judge Wayne, now far advanced in life, is the only Southern man left on the Bench. The following commendatory article of Mr. Moore, clipped from the Petersburg Index, will be endorsed by the bar and people of this State:

Prominent among these, occurs to our mind the name of a distinguished lawyer of our sister State, Hon. B. F Moore, of North Carolina—a gentleman whose reputation in his profession has no equal, we believe, in his State, and whose practical judgment and extensive acquaintance with the history and structure of our government, point him out in a special manner for service in a tribunal whose decisions frequently involve the most abstruse, delicate and keenly controverted questions of political philosophy.

North Carolina may fairly claim to this distinction at this time, many of the other States of the South having been complimented, to her exclusion, with similar appointments, and it is a fortunate circumstance, as well for her honor as for the reputation of the position, that she can present a candidate so exalted in qualifications and so unexceptionable in character as Hon. Mr. MOORE.

If, finally, the unfortunate inquisition into antecedents is still to be pursued, Mr. M. has, on this score, a peculiar fitness for the post. He has been marked throughout his whole life by a genuine conservatism, and his course in the late Convention of North Carolina, of which he was confessedly the leading spirit, demonstrated how heartily he accepted, and how willingly he conformed to the existing state of affairs.

Gen. Robt. Ransom of this State has been appointed one of the Superintendents of the National Express Company. This company has been organized not only in view of the necessities of the country, but it was a happy thought, by which to give employment to many of the officers and soldiers in both armies engaged in the late war. In the North the employees are taken from the Federal army, and in the South from the late Confederate army.

Gov. Graham.

We believe every vote cast for the Senate in the County of Orange at the late election, was given for Hon. W. A. Graham. This is a compliment as uncommon as it was well deserved by that distinguished patriot.

PUBLIC TREASURER.—The Progress announces the appointment of Dr. Wm. Sloan of Gaston by Gov. Holden, as Provisional Treasurer of the State vice Mr. Worth, resigned. Dr. Sloan is an intelligent and excellent gentleman and will no doubt make a prompt and obliging officer.

SECRETARY OF STATE.—We learn that Gov. Holden has appointed R. W. Best, Esq. of Greene, Secretary of State vice C. R. Thomas Esq., resigned, We have known Mr. Best for several years. He is thoroughly qualified for the position and will make a capital officer.

Gen. Grant on Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.

At York, Pa., Vice President Beekman on receiving Gen. Grant at the Union League Rooms last night, alluded to the foul wrong of the French invasion of Mexico. Gen. Grant in responding said, he endorsed the sentiments touching the future condition of Mexico.

Bill Arp is Mr. Charles H. Smith, of Rome, Georgia. He is a prominent man in his section, and is a candidate for the Georgia State Senate.

We think from his second letter in our columns to-day, he is "harmonizing" slowly. It is not equal to his first, but the amusement it gives the reader, may warrant the publication.

From Louisiana---Restoration of the Civil Government.

NEW ORLEANS, November 11.—General Canby has issued an order turning over to the authorities all the sanitary regulations that have been held by the military since 1862; also resigning all control over the State levees, the work on them and the collection of the tax to keep them repaired. He is also withdrawing the provost marshals in the parishes, except in certain cases, and is also stopping the issue of charity rations to persons unconnected with the army.

General Fullerton leaves the fixing of the amount of wages between freedmen and their employers for the next year to be regulated by the law of supply and demand.

South Carolina Adopts the Constitutional Amendment.

COLUMBIA, S. C., November 13.—The Constitutional amendment abolishing slavery passed both houses of the South Carolina Legislature today with but little opposition, after which the Legislature adjourned until the 25th instant.

GOVERNOR BROWNLOW ROBBED BY HIGHWAYMEN—IMPORTANT LAW CASE DECIDED.

NASHVILLE, November 10.—Governor Brownlow and Colonel Maynard were robbed on the Franklin pike yesterday, some ten miles from this city. They were driving carelessly along the road, when three highway men suddenly presented themselves. One seized the horse, while the others presented pistols to their heads, and demanded their money. As no choice was left, Governor Brownlow handed over five hundred dollars and his watch. They were then permitted to proceed.

An important suit—the United States vs. the Southern Methodist Publishing House—was dismissed yesterday, the defendant paying costs.

Daring attempt at Murder and High way Robbery!

Yesterday afternoon, at about 4 o'clock, while the accommodation Warsaw Hack was on its way to Fayetteville, seven miles distant, a daring attack was made by a highwayman upon the passengers. From a gentleman, an occupant of the coach at the time, we glean the following particulars concerning the affair: A well-dressed man, mounted on a sorrel horse, rode along-side of the stage and demanded of Mr. H. N. Baker, the proprietor of the line, and sitting at that time on the front seat, his "money or his life." No answer being given, the demand was repeated, and immediately a shot was fired, striking Mr. Bowes, an inside passenger, on the hand. The villain continued to fire shot after shot, all the time riding around the conveyance and taking deliberate aim, until he had entirely expended the contents of his revolver. The result of his attack is as follows: The driver (a colored man) mortally wounded; H. N. Baker, mortally wounded; Mr. Bowes slightly wounded, besides one of the horses disabled.

The intention of the man seems to have been to reload and again make an assault, as he rode forward evidently with this design. But the approach of travelers on the road seems to have somewhat unnerved, him and turning off, he disappeared in the woods.—Fayetteville News of the 9th.

IMMIGRATION TO THE SOUTH.—We see that among the immigrants arriving here a considerable number are bound directly for the Southern States. There are parties whose destinations were fixed before they left Europe, and who do not include the immigrants who came here without any settled plans, and who were subsequently influenced to proceed in the same direction. The fact is a significant one, and is full of promise for the South. It is well known that but few immigrants arrive here without bringing some little capital with them, and no doubt most of those who started with the idea of settling in the restored States are provided with larger sums than usual. At the South the amounts which they bring will, in gold, purchase ten times the land which they could buy at the North for the same money. Thus we shall have introduced at once into the Southern States an agricultural element that will replace negro labor, and that by its introduction of capital will also replace all that has been lost by the war.—New York Herald.

As Bill Arp says: "Confederic money is gwine to be good agin;" for we see it stated that the Hartford Times, Chicago Times, Cincinnati Enquirer and Buffalo Courier, all leading Northern papers, are advocating the assumption of the Confederate debt by the United States Government. This information is vouched for, and we advise our friends not to sacrifice their "Confederic" notes. Uncle Sam is going to be whole souled, liberal and magnanimous, and pay the whole debt. You who have been selling your Confederate money at $5 on the $1,000—don't you feel mean?—Wil. Dispatch.

As soon as it was positively known that Colonel Orr was elected Governor of South Carolina, his competitor, Wade Hampton, requested Gov. Perry to inform President Johnson of the fact, so that the President might withdraw, if he should think proper, the pardon which has been granted, or has been promised, under the supposition that General Hampton been elected Governor of the State.—Exchange.

BANK ORGANIZATION.—The meeting of stockholders of the First National Bank of Newbern was quite full on Saturday, and an organization was effected by electing the following gentlemen as directors: D. Heaton, Geo. Allen, J. M. Satterlee, Wm P. Moore, J. T. Hough, Moses Patterson, E. Hubbs, Samuel Blagge, J. Leland.—Newbern Times.

Kilpatrick, the famous raider, who has been appointed Minister to Chilli, is said to be "instructed by the Secretary of State to substantially advocate the Monroe doctrine abroad."

Another Letter from Bill Arp.

"Bill Arp," who lately made a very happy hit, in a letter to Artemus Ward, has written the following in the same strain on the state of the country:

[From the Rome Courier.

BILL ARP ON THE STATE OF THE COUNTRY.

"Sweet land of Liberty, of thee I sing."

Not much I don't, not at this time. If there's anything sweet about liberty in this part of the vineyard, I can't see it. The land's good enuf and I wouldn't mind hearin a hyme or two about the dirt I live on, but as for findin sugar and liberty in Georgy soil, its all a mistake. Howsumever. I'm hopeful. I'm much calmer and sereener than I was a few months ago. I begin to feel kindly towards all people, except some I'm now endeavorin to be a great national man. I've taken up a mottoe of no North, no South, no East, no West; but let me tell you, my friend, I'll bet on Dixie as long as I've got a dollar. Its no harm to run both skedules. In fakt its highly harmonious to do so. I'm a good Union reb and my battle cry are Dixie and the Union.

But you see, my friend, we are gettin reckless about some things. The war had bekum mity heavy on us, and after the big collapse, we thought it was over for good. We had killed folks and killed folks until the novelty of the thing had wore off, and we were mighty nigh played out all over. Children were increasin and victuals diminishin. By a close calculashun it was purseeved that we did'nt kill our enemies as fast as they was imported, and about those times I thought it was a pity that some mirakle of grace had'nt cut off the breed of furriners some 18 or 20 years ago. Then you would have seed a far fight. General Sherman would'nt have walked over the track, and Ulysses would have killed more men than he did —of his own side. I hav always thaut that a General ought to be pertikler which side he was sacrifisin.

Well, if the war is over, what's the use of fillin up our towns and cities with soldiers any longer. Where's your rekonstruktion that the papers say is going on so rapidly? Where's the liberty and freedom? The fakt is, General Sherman and his caterpillars made such a clean sweep of everything, I don't see much to rekonstrukt. They took so many liberties around here that there's nary liberty left. I could have rekonstrukted a thousand sich States before this. Any body could. There was'nt nuthin to do but jest go and let us alone. We've got plenty of Statesmen—plenty of men for Governor.

Joe Brown aint dead—he's a waiting—standing at the door with his hat off. Then what's the soldiers here for—what good are they doin—who wants to see 'em any longer. Everybody is tired of the war and we dont want to see any more signs of it. The niggers don't want 'em, and the white men don't want 'em, and as for the wimen—whoope! I golly! Well, there's no use talking—when the stars fall again maybe the wimen will be harmonized. The male business—that oath about gittin letters! Geetiger! They always was jealous about the males anyhow, and that order jest broke the camel's back. Well, I must confess that it was a powerful small concern. I would try to sorter smooth it over if I knowd what to say, but I don't. If they was afeered of the wimen why didn't they say so. If they wasn't what do they make 'em swear for? Jest to aggrevate em? Didn't they know that the best way to harmonize a man, was to harmonize his wife first! What harm can the wimen do by receivin their letters oath free? They can't vote, nor they can't preach, nor hold offis, nor play soldier, nor muster, nor wear breeches, nor ride straddle, nor cuss, nor chaw terbacker, nor do nuthin hardly but talk and rite letters. I hearn that a valant kernel made a wimen put up her fan because it had a pikter of Borygard 'pon it. Well she's harmonized, I reckon. Now the trouble of all sich is that after those bayonets leave here and go home, these pettycoat tyrants can't come back any more. Some Georgy fool will mash the juice out of 'em sertin, and that wouldn't be neither harmonious or healthy.—Better let the wimen alone.

Then there's another thing I'm waitin for.—Why don't they rekoostrukt the niggers if they are ever goin to? They've give'em a powerful site of freedom, and very little else. Here's the big freedmen's buro, and the little buros all over the country, and the papers are full of grand orders an special orders, and paragrafs, but I'll bet a possum some of 'em steals my wood or freezes to death. Freedmen's buro! freedmen's humbug, I say. Jest when the corn needed plowin the worst, the buro rung the bell and tolled all the niggers to town and the farmers lost the crop, and now the freedmen is getting cold and hungry, and wants to go back, and there aint nothin for 'em to go to. But freedom is a big thing. Hurra for the freedom's buro! Sweet land of liberty, of thee I don't sing! But it's all right. I'm for freedom myself. Nobody wants any more slavery. If the abolitionists had let us alone we would have fixed it up right a long time ago, and we can fix it up now. The buro aint fixed it, and ain't a going to. It don't known anything about it. Our people have got a heap more feelin for the poor nigger than any abulishinists. We are as poor as Job, but I'll bet a dollar we can raise more money in Rome to build a nigger church than they did in Bostown. The papers say that after going round for 3 weeks, the Bostown christians raised thirty seven dollars to build a nigger church in Savannah.—They are powerful on theory but mighty scace in practice.

But its no use talkin. Everybody will know by waitin who's been foold. Mr. Johnson says he's gwine to experiment, that's all he can do now—its all anybody can do. Mr. Johnson's head's level. I'm for him, and everybody ought to be for him—only he's powerful slow about some things. I ain't a worshipping him. He never made me. I hear folks hollering hurraw for Andy Johnson, and the papers say, oh! he's for us, he's all right, he's our frend. Well, spose he is, hadn't he ought to be? Did you expekt him to be a dog. Bekase he ain't a hanging of us, is it necessary to playin hipocrit around the footstool of power, and makin out like he was the greatest man in the world, and we was the greatest sinners? Who's sorry? Who's repentin? Who ain't proud of our people?—Who loves our enemies? Nobody but a durned sneak. I say let 'em hang and be hanged to 'em, before I'd beg 'em for grace. Wha's Sokrates, wha's Cato? But if Andy holds his own, the country's safe, provided the general assemblys and sinods and Bishops conventions will keep the devil and Brownlow tied. Here's a passel of shukhearted fellers who played tory jest to dodge bullits or save property, now howlin about for offis—want everything bekuase they was for Union. They was for themselves, that's all they was for, and they ain't a goin to get the offises neither. Mr. Johnson ain't got no more respek for 'em than I have. We want to trade 'em off. By hokey, we'll give two of 'em for one copperhead, and ax nothin to boot. Let 'em skinny on their own side, and git over among the folks who don't want us reconstrukted.—There's them newspaper scribblers who slip down to the edge of Dixey every 24 hours, and peep over at us, on tip toe. Then they run back a puffin and blowin with a straight coat tail, and holler out, "He ain't dead—he ain't dead—look out everybody. I'm just from thar—seed his toe move—heard him grunt; he's goin to rise agin. Don't withdraw the sojers, but send more troops down immegeately." And here's your Harper's Weekly a beadin all such—a gassin lies and slanders in every issue—makin insultin picters in every sheet—breeding everlastin discord, and chawin bigger than ever since we got licked.—Wish old Stonewall had cotch these Harpers at their Ferry, and we boys had knowd they was goin to keep up this devilment so long. We'd made baptists of them sartain, payroll or no payroll. Hurraw for a brave soldier, I say, reb or no reb, yank or no yank; hurraw for a manly foe and a generous victor—hurraw for our side too, I golly, excuse me, but sich expressions will work their way out sometimes, brakes or no brakes.

But I'm for Mr. Johnson. I'm for all the Johnsons—its a bully name. There's our Governor, who aint goin at a discount; and there's Andy, who is doing powerful well considering, and there's the hero of Shiloh—peace to his noble ashes.

And there's Joe—my bully Joe—wouldn't I walk ten miles of a rainy night to see them hazel eyes, and feel the grip of his soldier hand.—Didn't my rooster always clap his wings and crow whenever he passed our quarters. Instinct told him that he was the true prince," and it would make anybody brave to be nigh him. I like all the Johnsons, even to Sam—L. C. He never levied on me if he could git round it. For twenty years me and Sam have been workin together in the justice court. I was an everlastin defendant, and Sam the Constable, but he never sold my property nor skeered Mrs. Arp. Hurraw for the Johnsons!

Well on the whole, there's a heap of things to be thankful for. I'm thankful the war is over—that's the big thing. Then I'm thankful I ain't a black republican. I'm thankful that Thad Stevens and Sumner and Phillips, nor none of their kin ain't no kin to me. I'm thankful for the high privilege of hatin all such. I'm thankful I live in Dixey, in the State of Georgy; and our Governor's name ain't Brownlow. Poor Tennessee! I golly, didn't she catch it. Andy Johnson's pardons won't do rebs much good there.—They better git one from the devil if they expect it to pass. Wonder what made Providence afflict 'em with sich a cuss.

But I can't dwell on such a subjekt. Its highly demoralizin and unprofitable.

"Sweet land of liberty, of thee,"
I could not sing in Tennessee.

But when we've had a circus once more, and seen the clown play round, and that makes up for a heap of trouble. In fact, its the best sign of reconstruction I have yit observed.

Yourn, hopin, BILL ARP.

P. S.—And they hawled Grant's cabin a thousand miles. Well! Sherman's war horse stayed in my stable one night. I want to sell the stall to some Yankee State fair. As our people ain't the sort that runs after big folks thing's, the stall ain't no more than any other stall to me. State Fairs, it's for sale. I suppose that Harpers Weekly or Frank Lesley will paint a pikter of it soon, by drawin on their imagination. B. A.

Tribute of Respect.

PHILANTHROPIC HALL,
University of North Carolina.
October 27th, 1865

WHEREAS, The Philanthropic Society has received the mournful intelligence of the death of many of its members, who offered their lives a sacrifice on the shrine of liberty:

Resolved, That whereas, these many gallant spirits have been added to the long and mournful list of the Alumni of this University, who have fallen in our struggle for independence, that it behooves us to present our feeble offering at the shrine of Freedom and Freedom's dead. And that while we bow in humble resignation to the fiat of him "who doeth all things well," we can but mourn over the untimely end of youths, talents and fortunes; we can but drop a tear over the graves of the soldiers and patriots.

Resolved, That in the loss of the above named, the University has lost some of its most gifted and promising Alumni, and our country some who bade fair, ere long, to shine, an honor and an ornament to their native land.

Resolved, That the warmest sympathies of the Society are hereby tendered to the bereaved families and friends of the same, and our hopes, that in their hour of sadness, they will look for consolation to Him "who gave and who has taken away."

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to the Raleigh Standard and Sentinel, Charleston Courier and Mobile Advertiser, with a request to copy the same.

FACTS TO BE CONSIDERED.

THERE ARE BUT FEW SUBJECTS PRESENTED to the mind of man upon which there are not a great variety of opinions, and about which there are not protracted discussions. But there are a few facts so well established, and so uncontrovertible that they are universally assented to. One is that all men now living, will soon be called upon to gather up their feet and depart to the land of the dead. "One generation goeth, and another cometh, and we have no abiding city here," is a matter about which there is no dispute. Another is, "Of that day, and of that hour, knoweth no man." Whether death cometh at the twelfth hour or at the cock crowing, is of equal uncertainty to all.

Another is, that when wife and children gather around us, to take their final leave, in that sad circle centers all our earthly interest. The last earthly rational thought of Husband and Father, is Wife and Children (if worthy of sustaining such endearing relations.) Another is, no man living knows what may be the result of his efforts to secure a competence for his family. "Riches take to themselves wings and fly away," has been realized by how many? adverse winds of to-morrow, may take the place of to-day's prosperous gales; under currents which the most penetrating eye cannot see, or the strongest arm control, may in an evil hour sweep away the hard earnings of years. Another is, no man ever has, or ever can assume more sacred obligations, than Husband and Father. Hence it is said, that he that will not provide for his own household is worse than an infidel.

Now, what Husband and Father is there battling with the difficulties of life, knowing as he must, that uncertainties attend every effort, and wait upon every enterprise, that he has not with earnest voice, and anxious heart, called to the future to unlock its barred gates and reveal to him the result of this or that undertaking. But the only voice that comes from that land of silence, is, "Verily, thou knowest not what shall be on the morrow."

Such are some of the few facts about which there is no controversy, and such are some of the uncertainties that ever have, and ever will, gather around our pathway through life, and which have in generations past, and will in generations to come, trouble and oppress the Husband and Father. Now in view of these facts, responsibilities, and uncertainties, it is for you to judge and decide upon the propriety, necessity, and duty, of making a policy on your life, for the benefit of your family. Will it not relieve you of your present anxiety to know that a certain portion of the fruits of you labors are secured to that family? Remember that whatever you pay for a life policy is paid to them. The stranger intermeddleth not with that.

Remember also, that $5000 paid to them in that day when the heart and flesh shall fail you, will be more to them, than $10,000 while you are here to provide for them. Also remember, that the amount for which you are insured will not be diminished in the settling of your estate, and that from generation to generation, Life Insurance has answered the end for which is was ordained, as fully, to say to the least, as any institution of man's creation, and that its primary object was, and still is, to secure the family against the stern realities of want, and to relieve from corroding anxiety those who have assumed family responsibilities.

Do you say "I know it would be wise in me to take out a policy and I intend to do so soon; but just now I want to use all my funds in my business."—Friend, if it is wisdom in you to insure at all, it is folly to defar it, to-morrow is in eternity, therefore "Boast not thyself of to morrow," "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." "Procrastination is the thief of time."

The Aetna Life Insurance Company offers you all the inducements to insure that can be found in any company. Its assets are over a million and a half. It has a surplus of $300,000 over and above what is required to reinsure all its policies. Its monthly receipts are over $150,000. And it is issuing monthly nearly 1000 policies. Its rates for insurance are as reasonable as those of any other well established responsible Company. It is paying as large dividends to its policy holders as any other Company. Its officers are competent business men. Its assets, are as permanently and as safely invested as any other company can invest theirs, and from which as good interest is being received. It pays its losses as promptly, is as particular in the character of its risks, and as yet it is a stranger to litigation.
